Headline:
Dry and cold.

Today:
A frosty, and in places icy start to the day, with some hazy sunshine, and the odd fog patch. Remaining dry throughout with occasional sunny spells, the best of these in the east. Still feeling rather cold through the day. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Tonight:
Increasingly cloudy overnight with outbreaks of light rain or drizzle spreading south as it also turns breezy. Feeling chilly under early cloud breaks, but turning milder than of late. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Tuesday:
Remaining windy and rather cloudy through Tuesday. Further patchy light rain or drizzle at times. Heavier and more persistent rain arriving in the evening. Feeling milder than recent days. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Wednesday to Friday:
Blustery and showery on Wednesday, and turning colder. Brighter on Thursday, before a band of rain sweeps through overnight into Friday with snow over high ground and further strong winds.
